Meetings

Thank you for volunteering to serve on this important committee. It is the role of this committee to serve as a communication link between the hotel and the conference attendees.

Last year, this committee served to find solutions to noise pollution, stress relief and more entertainment in the hotel. I look forward to some more creative ideas this year.

The committee meetings during this year's conference will be held in the Presidential Suite #1455 at 2:00pm on Monday and Tuesday. Dessert will be served. If you have an event which conflicts with this time, please talk with your series director to see if it can be changed. If not, please let me know if you won't be attending by calling conference headquarters.

I look forward to seeing you there!

McAllister, Cole & Green: Three heads for business

Carter McAllister (front), Theresa Cole and Ben Green have earned the chance to compete in the national Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) competition in Orlando, Fla., beginning Friday. Green is a junior at Hillsboro High School; Cole and McAllister are seniors.

They qualified for the national competition by winning first place in the free enterprise event of the state DECA contest March 9. They tailored a series of lessons on business basics for fifth-graders at Butternut Creek, McKinley and Minter Bridge elementary schools. They also were judged on their work in a high school marketing class. As part of the class, they took Applied Economics, a Junior Achievement program in which they worked with a business person and ran a student company.
